WATER FACTS AND FANCIES

SHUT OFF THE WATER!

If a water pipe or fixture in your home springs a major leak, will you know how to shut off the water?

Most sinks, wash basins and toilets have shutoff valves below them that cut off their water supply. The hot-water heater also has a valve to turn off hot water to the whole house. Unfortunately, most of our bathtub and showers don't have shutoffs because the plumbing is usually behind the wall.

The American Water Works Association urges you to check around and identify all the shutoff valves in your house. Then, see if they work.

Most important, locate the main shutoff valve. This one cuts off water to the whole house. It's usually located where the water pipe comes into the house. If you don't have one, or if it doesn't work, ask a plumber to correct the situation.

These emergencies don't happen often. But when they do, knowing what valve to turn will spare your property and your nerves.

ELIJAH GOES FOR BROKE!

Lesson for July 8, 1979

Background Scripture: I Kings 16:29-18:40

Focal Passage: I Kings 16:30 - 33; 18:17-21, 36-39.

And Elijah said to all the people, "How long will you go limping with two different opinions? If the Lord is God, follow him; but if Baal, then follow him." (I Kings 18:21)

Reign of Terror and Evil

The nation Israel went through numerous political power struggles following the death of Jeroboam. For the next twenty-five years the people were forced to live under political anarchy. Jeroboam left a trail of political upheaval for the next four kings to follow. And follow they did! The hope of Israel could only be found in the prophetic ministry of a man like Elijah.

Besides the obvious political corruption which plagued the nation Israel, there was the growing worship fo the pagan god, Baal. King Ahab of Israel took his lead from his wife, Jezebel, and worshipped the pagan Baal. The queen (Jezebel) promoted the worship of Baal with great zeal.

There is a great difference between a religion that must be promoted and a faith that is proclaimed. A religion that must be promoted is done so for personal and political motives, even for profit on occasion. A faith which is proclaimed is done so out of love and concern.

Our scripture reference says that King Ahab and Queen Jezebel did more to anger the God of Israel than all other kings who had gone before. That is a pretty strong and serious indictment. An even sadder part of this tragic story is what happened to the people during the political and religious corruption. When people suffer and are misled due to corrupt leadership, the time has come for someone to step up and call a halt to the mess. Such was the case in the person of Elijah the Prophet!

A Strange New Voice

The prophet Elijah represented a major interruption in Ahab and Jezebel's plan to turn the nation Israel from worshipping the Lord to worshipping Baal. Elijah came proclaiming the coming of a drought as a means of challenging the so-called storm-god. Ahab was deeply angered by the presence of this new voice that came challenging the worship of Baal. In fact, Ahab confronted Elijah and asked if he were the one who was causing so much trouble in all of Israel. Of course, Elijah turned the tide by accusing Ahab of forsaking the Lord.

Strange new voices which challenge traditional beliefs are often seen as a threat. Oftentimes we become too secure in our thinking so that we are not open to new ways of looking at things. Anyone who comes along offering a challenge to traditional thinking is often seen as a troublemaker.

There are times when a new voice is needed to keep a person or a people from taking a false trail. Blind ambition may lead a person to a bad end. Blind aherence to a creed or doctrine is easier than struggling with soul-searching questions. An attitude that says, "My country, right or wrong!" or "My denomination, right or wrong!" may be glossing over obvious sins.

Most of us don't like to be troubled by new perspectives or challengers which prod us to think for ourselves. Some people have a need to be told how to live, what to do, how to think. Like Ahab, we may rest uneasy when a new voice confronts our aged stronghold!

The Showdown at Mount Carmel

After several years of severe drought, Elijah decided it was time to make the big challenge. He asked all Israel and all the prophets of Baal to meet him in a duel at Mount Carmel. Elijah put his everything on the line before the people of Israel and before God. He sternly rebuked the people and asked how long they would go on living with two opinions. The Hebrew translation reads, "How long do you hop from one foot to another?"

The outcome of the challenge set the stage for the people of Israel to come back to their true home. When the fire fell and consumed the sacrifice, the people's eyes were immediately opened to the truth about God and about themselves; they realized their misake in worshipping the god of Baal, and affirmed their belief in the One Lord who had brought them from slavery to freedom.

NEWS OF HEALTH

Danger Signals: Sleeping Pills and Other Rx Drugs

Millions of people in the United States use mood-altering drugs under a doctor's care with beneficial effects, but these drugs—tranquilizers, stimulants, sleeping pills, and pain relievers—can be abused.

If you think you or someone you know has a problem with drugs, ask yourself these questions:

1. Are you defensive if anyone mentions your drug use?
2. Are you ever embarrassed or frightened by your behavior under the influence of drugs?
3. Have you gone to a new doctor because your old one would not prescribe the drug you wanted?
4. When under pressure or feeling anxious, do you automatically take a tranquilizer?
5. Do you take drugs more often or for reasons other than those indicated by your doctor?
6. Do you mix drugs and alcohol?
7. Do you regularly take drugs to help you sleep?
8. Do you have to take pills to wake up?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, you may have a drug problem. To avoid problems before they start, the National Institute on Drug Abuse says you should always be able to answer the following questions:

1. Do you know what drug you're taking and what it's supposed to do for you?
2. Do you know when to stop taking it?
3. Do you know what side effects or problems to watch for?
4. If you have questions about the drug you've been prescribed, have you talked with your doctor or considered a second opinion?

The Institute points out that a recent study shows sleeping pills only reduce the time needed to fall asleep by 10 to 20 minutes, only increase a night's sleep by 30 to 40 minutes, and continuous use of some sleeping pills actually worsens insomnia. The study also showed that flurazepam (Dalmane), the most prescribed sleeping drug, can affect driving performance the day after use.
